Dear Mr. and Mrs. Guardians,

We hope this letter finds you well. It is with great concern that we write to inform you of the troubling circumstances we face whilst residing with our current guardian, Count Olaf. Regrettably, we feel compelled to express our apprehensions regarding our safety and well-being in his care.

Firstly, we must highlight that the environment within Count Olaf's abode is far from secure. The structure of the residence is dilapidated, with creaking floorboards and walls that seem on the verge of collapse. Furthermore, there are numerous traps and hazards scattered around the premises, posing a significant risk to our health and safety.

Moreover, our interactions with Count Olaf have led us to believe that his intentions towards us are malevolent. It pains us to insinuate this, but we suspect that he harbours sinister motives, driven by greed and a desire for our demise. His constant surveillance and threats have instilled fear in our hearts, and we cannot shake the unnerving feeling that our lives are in peril.

In light of these distressing circumstances, we implore you to consider our plea for urgent intervention. We do not take this decision lightly, but we believe that our continued presence in Count Olaf's household jeopardises our very existence. We beseech you to take swift action to ensure our safety and well-being.

We remain hopeful that you will heed our concerns and take the necessary steps to secure our future. Our trust in your judgement and care is unwavering, and we trust that you will act in our best interests.

With sincerest regards,

The Baudelaire Family
