There are many last consonant silent letters in French. The final 's' is silent in the word 'les' and pronounced similar to the English sound 'leh'. However, if it is followed by a noun that starts with a vowel like 'oignons', 'épinards' or 'aubergines' the 's' in 'les' will be pronounced almost like a 'z' sound. This is called liaison.

Grammar

The plural form of the determiner 'the' in French (les) does not change in masculine or feminine form.

To become more familiar with and use the high frequency verb 'je voudrais' (I would like to) in French.

je voudrais

I would like...
